ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Our Exchanges.

During his recent visit to Washington A. J. Croft of Enosburg Falls did a little advertising in a very effective way by distributing samples of Vermont maple sugar. Since his return he has received a very appreciative note from Secretary Wilson in acknowledgement of the package sent to the department of agriculture.

The new armory of Company M. V. N. G. of Burlington, was dedicated Friday evening with a military ball, the occasion being one of splendor and brilliance and the most notable social event of the season. Unusual interest was attached to the affair because of the presence of a large number of officers from Fort Ethan Allen, officers of the Vermont National Guard, members of the governor's staff and scores of society people.

A boy named William Pope, who had been working for Ray Cooley, of Peacham, left suddenly one afternoon taking with him $75 in bills belonging to Mr. Cooley. The boy, when arrested in a night lunch cart that evening had only $15 left, having replenished his wardrobe, bought new eye glasses, and other things. At a subsequent hearing he was bound over to the June term of Caledonia county court. Bail was fixed at $500, and not being able to furnish it he is now languishing in the county jail at St. Johnsbury.

The current issue of Leslie's Weekly contains an article on "Vermont's Remarkable Bloodhounds," accompanied by a page full of illustrations. According to this article the kennels of J. L. Winchell at Fair Haven, are the leading source of the supply of English bloodhounds in this country. At the present time Mr. Winchell has about twenty-five dogs, all of them prize winners of their progeny. He has sold several hundred of the animals, the prices ranging from $500 upward. The Rockefeller and other millionaires are his patrons and his kennels are visited by many prominent persons.

The third spelling contest of the Lamotte county schools was held in Stowe Friday evening. The teams competing were from the People's Academy of Morrisville, high school of Hyde Park, and high school of this village. The contest was for the Kersey silver cup. The score resulted in the People's Academy having nine points scored against them, the same number against the Hyde Park high school, and the high school of Stowe only seven. Stowe, therefore, for the third time, wins the cup, and it will remain in the school's possession. The members of the winning team were Conrad Adams, Philip Adams, Frank Robinson, Arthur Wright and Alice Burr.

Funeral of Col. Erastus Baldwin.
Wells River, Jan. 21.—The funeral of Col. Erastus Baldwin took place at his home today. Rev. R. C. Flagler of Berlin and Rev. J. A. Balenger of Wells River officiating. Col. Baldwin was in his 63d year; had been a prominent citizen and had served on the staff of Gov. Grout. He had been in failing health for several years, but was confined to the house for only a few months. He died on Thursday from a recent stroke of paralysis. He is survived by his wife and one son, Hon. H. T. Baldwin.

Channel Kept Open by Muskellunge.
What has been regarded as a peculiar phenomenon of nature was recently explained, says a Woodruff (Minn.) correspondent of the St. Paul Dispatch. Ever since Rice lake was frozen over it has been noticed that a narrow channel was always open at the entrance to the lake. The channel was leading into Alder lake. Tom Miller early the other morning noticed that a thin coating of ice had formed during the night. While looking at it he was astonished to see a big muskellunge start from the east shore and, acting for all the world like a tug bucking heavy ice, break its way to the other shore. Reaching that, the big fish, which, according to Miller, must have weighed seventy-five pounds, started back, trimming up the rough edges of the channel. Mr. Miller says it was the most remarkable sight he ever witnessed.

A Grim Tragedy
is daily enacted, in thousands of homes, as death claims in each one, another victim of consumption or pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated the tragedy is averted. P. G. Huntley of Oakland, Ind., writes: "My wife had the consumption, and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c and $1.00 by Rickert & Wells, druggists. Trial bottle free.

Father—Why, what a little woman she's getting!
Mother—Yes, a very expensive young lady. She grows out of all her frocks.
Dorothy—Mamma's expensive too. She's grown out of her pretty frock—Punch.

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Major Using Herpicide on Account of Its Discriminateness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it always that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

REALISTIC STORY WRITING.

Model Permits Author to Knock Her Down to Delect Jealous Rage.

A story built on a psychological study of emotions and passions, with a living model on which to "try out" the parts, and a faithful portrayal of personal experiences in love-making is what Clarence Wilbur Taber of Evanston, Ill., is bringing out, says a Chicago dispatch.

The heroine, known to the stage as Alice Moulton, has been transferred through the aid of psychology and realism to the pages of a bound volume and in the world of letters is a unique production.

In order that this may be done love scenes, a passionate proposal of marriage, the first awakening of two affections in the soft moonlight, the rage of a jealous man and a disappointed sweetheart have for the purpose of procuring realism been acted out like a play between the author and his model. In his own home at Evanston, in the presence of his wife, C. Wilbur Taber says he put himself in the position of his various male characters, while his beautiful model, properly costumed, placed herself in the position of the female characters.

Taber understood the part he wanted to emphasize, and with hard study and continuous application his model assimilated her portions of the story. Each memorized the part assigned and then went through the motions. These included love-making, kisses, caresses, weepings and moments of bliss.

The daring model who essayed to aid the author in his work permitted herself to be first embraced, then repulsed and finally struck to the floor in the frenzy of his angry passion, and then, in order not to lose any of the effect, Taber rushed like a madman from his house, across fields, down the road, and did not return until the psychological produced passion wore off.

A Plague of Rats.

There are all kinds of rat stories coming in from the country west of Springfield, Ill. From what the farmers say, the Pied Piper of Hamelin would have his work cut out for him if he should attempt to wheedle all the rodents into Spring creek, says the Springfield (Ill.) News. A well known farmer in speaking of the plague, for such the incursion has become, says that they simply overrun the fields and that many farmers have been forced to sell their corn because the rats invaded the cribs in such numbers that the stored corn was rapidly being destroyed or rendered unfit for use. One man living near Farmington who drove down a crib with the aid of two dogs and a revolver slaughtered over 200 rats in a space of time so short that it seems almost impossible. This seems to be a "rat year" in the country as well as in the city.

General Oyama's Idea of Happiness.
The great Japanese field marshal, the Marquis Oyama, once said: "My idea of happiness is to dispose of everything I possess that belongs to the practice of arms and go far into the country with big boxes of books to read for the rest of my days—books that tell of happiness and progress and not of the terrible deeds of war. And I would gather about me my best old friends and little children. Then in the sunny days all would be happiness."

The Laying Hen is the Paying Men.

Are you getting the returns from your poultry department that you think you ought? If not, are you sure you are giving them the proper food? H. W. Muzzey of Tilton, N. H., tells how they feed poultry in his vicinity to make it pay. "I have sold 'Page's Perfected Poultry Food' for the past three years and I find that it gives excellent satisfaction. I have quite a good many customers who have used it for three years and would not think of trying to keep hens without it. My sales increase each year."
